Read the PASSAGE and answer questions 21–27.

Tina felt that she was too old to play hide-and-seek. But her mother had asked her to watch her cousins. They were just six. The twins were visiting for the weekend. So Tina did what she could to keep them entertained. But she didn't hide her feelings about it.

"Okay. I have to play with you two. So let's get it over with," she said. They rolled their eyes at her. They weren't happy about the plan either. Every time they visited, the kids were sent to play with her. Because she was three years older, she thought she was much smarter than they were. She liked to show off. She'd been doing it for years.

Once, she rode around them on her two-wheeler. While she rode in a circle, she said, "I bet you can't ride a two-wheeler." It was true. Last year, they were still using training wheels. But they knew that she wasn't really better than they were.

So, today, her game was hide-and-seek. She was "it," of course. She always picked the best part for herself first. They hid. She found them. The game was boring all of them. Then Rohan and Priya had an idea. "When she hides, let's not find her. Let's see how long it takes for her to see that we're not playing."
